DETAILED ACTION

1. Applicant's response has been fully considered. Claims 9-24 are canceled and claims 1-8 are pending.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1, 2 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Held et al. (US 5,429,860) in view of Vincent et al. (US 6,951,672 B2).
4. Held discloses an ink/media set comprising a media containing a support and ink receiving coating on the support, and the ink is provided on the ink receiving coating (claim 1). The ink comprises a dye that forms a covalent bond with the media (col. 4, lines 39-41). The ink receiving layer comprises a polymer (col. 7, line 55), a reactive component (col. 8, line 19) and fillers such as silica and alumina (col. 10, line 12). Held does not teach that the reactive component is covalently attached to the filler.
5. Vincent teaches a coated media sheet comprising a substrate and a coating provided on the substrate, wherein the coating comprises a modified pigment including a fixer group and a stabilizer group, each covalently attached to the pigment (abstract). The pigment comprises silica, alumina, titania, zirconia or organo-metallic material (col.

2, line 49). Vincent further teaches the use of a silane or siloxane spacer group (col. 9, line 52).

6. Held and Vincent are analogous art because they from the same field of invention that is the printed ink jet recording medium art. At the time of the invention, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to covalently attach the reactive component of Held with the filler of held in order to enhance dye-stability in ink jet produced images (col. 3, line 35-48 of Vincent). Even though Held does not teach covalently attaching the reactive component with the filler, Vincent teaches the advantage of covalently attaching the reactive groups with the pigment as oppose to having the reactive group in the coating or in the ink, the advantage being to enhance dye stability (col. 3, line 35-48 of Vincent).

7. Alternatively, at the time of the invention, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to combine the modified pigment of Vincent with the invention of Held so as to enhance dye-stability in ink jet produced images (col. 3, line 35-48 of Vincent).

Allowable Subject Matter

8. Claims 3-7 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
